

Southern African Linguistics and Applied Language Studies to receive a JCR Impact Factor

NISC are pleased to announce that Southern African Linguistics and Applied Language Studies has been accepted for indexing and abstracting in Thompson Reuters's Journal Citation Reports® (JCR) as from the first issue of Volume 25 (2007). Acceptance for coverage in this product follows a rigorous evaluation process and is an endorsement of the quality and international relevance of the journal. Coverage in this product will unquestionably raise the journal's visibility in the international academic community and, among many other features in this product, the journal will receive a JCR 'impact factor'. (Inclusion of a journal in JCR was formally referred to as having an "ISI-rating"). The journal's first impact factor will be included in the 2009 JCR which will be published in the second quarter of 2010 however the journal is already considered to be 'JCR Accredited'.

Southern African Linguistics and Applied Language Studies is published by NISC South Africa in association with the Linguistics Society of South Africa (LSSA) and the Southern African Applied Linguistics Association.

Southern African Linguistics and Applied Language Studies publishes articles on a wide range of linguistic topics and acts as a forum for research into ALL the languages of southern Africa, including English and Afrikaans. Articles in languages other than English are accompanied by an extended English summary.

- The journal is published in print and online as four issues per year
- Full text of current and back issues is available online through IngentaConnect (more than 2000 hits per month on Ingenta)
- Document deliveries (free to low income countries) are available online through African Journals Online
- Indexed/abstracted by major bibliographic databases

- The journal has recently been included in Journal Citation Reports[®], published by Thomson Reuters
- SAPSE accredited

2008 Subscription rates

African individual: R480; institutional: R810

International individual: $240; institutional: $415

(rates include vat and postage)

Members of the LSSA receive a complementary subscription to the journal (either in print and online or online only). To join the LSSA please contact Cobus Snyman at snymanfp.hum@ufs.ac.za.

For subscriptions, trials or further information, mail journals@nisc.co.za or click here.

Author information

Original contributions are welcomed on any of the core areas of linguistics, both theoretical (e.g. syntax, phonology, semantics) and applied (e.g. sociolinguistic topics, language teaching, language policy). Review articles, short research reports and book reviews are also welcomed. Relevant articles that comply with the instructions to authors should be submitted to Editor-in-Chief Professor Jacobus A Naudé at naudej.hum@mail.ufs.ac.za.